

Call for Participants

Do you identify as Black, Indigenous or a Person of Colour (BIPoC or racialized)?

Are you a high school teacher trying to develop pedagogies to teach about climate change and social justice in ANY subject area?

You're invited to participate in this study on the climate justice teaching practices of BIPoC high school teachers in Ontario. The study involves two steps:

- 1) A short (6-8 min) survey: Click here to begin.
- 2) An optional 45 minute online interview to be arranged at a time most convenient for you.

BIPoC voices are underrepresented in climate change education. Your voice matters! All interview participants will receive a list of climate change teaching resources at the end of this study.
